FEISAL LEAVES LONDON
Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
New York Times (1857-Current file); Jun 22, 1948; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The New York Times (1851 - 2002)
pg. 17

FEISAL LEAVES LONDON

Lack of Concrete Results in Talks With Bevin Indicated

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 21—Emir Feisal al-Saud, Foreign Minister of Saudi Arabia, left London by air today after a series of talks with Foreign Secretary Bevin and Foreign Office officials. No communiqué was issued, thus indicating that the talks had not produced any concrete results.

Emir Feisal, second son of King Ibn Saud, is going by way of Geneva and Cairo to Riyadh, his father's capital, where King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan is to pay a visit after a journey to King Farouk's court in Egypt.

The obvious intent of these two visits is to present to the outer world a united front among the three Arab monarchs whose ambitions generally are supposed to be most contradictory. The talks of the three Kings probably will have a vital effect on the ultimate Arab League policy in the Palestine peace negotiations.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.