Several Ambassadors Named, Prosecutors Reappointed and Other Posts Filled

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 29—President Truman sent to the Senate today a long list of nominations for important Federal posts despite an announced policy by Republican leaders of the Senate not to act on any more nominations until the next Congress convenes in January.

The nominations included several ambassadorships, a considerable number of reappointments of United States district attorneys and marshals, and the names of various important officials.

The nominations were received by the Senate without comment.

Among the new appointments were those of George Wadsworth of New York, now Ambassador to Iraq, to be Ambassador to Turkey, and of Edward R. Dudley of New York to be Minister to Liberia.

Other diplomatic appointments sent to the Senate today embraced a number of important appointments which were made by the President during the recess of Congress. Included were these:

Loy W. Henderson, director of the Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs of the State Department, to be ambassador to India and Minister to Nepal.

Myron Melvin Cowen, of New York, to be Ambassador to Australia.

Stanton Griffis, of Connecticut, to be Ambassador to Egypt.

James Grover McDonald, of New York, to be Special Representative of the United States to the Provisional Government of Egypt.

W. Averell Harriman of New York to be special representative of the United States, with rank of Ambassador, in Europe in connection with the European Cooperation Administration.

Among other nominations was that of Mrs. Anne O'Hare McCormick, member of the editorial staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES, to be one of the five representatives of the United States to the third session of general conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, to be held Oct. 18 to Nov. 10.

Among nominations that carried promotions of government officials was that of Edward H. Foley Jr. of New York, now Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, to be Under-Secretary of the Treasury in place of A. Lee M. Wiggins, who resigned recently.
