Egypt's Court to Mourn 14 Days for British King

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Feb. 6—The Egyptian court will remain in mourning for fourteen days in tribute to King George VI of Britain, according to a royal decree issued tonight.

Abdel Latil Talaat, Grand Chamberlain, called at the British Embassy to express King Farouk's sympathy. It was also announced that Egypt would be represented at the funeral in London.

In the Canal zone, where British troops are stationed, all motion-picture theatres and dance halls were closed and a church service was held.
