Israel Blamed For Foray in Egypt; 2 Dead
The Washington Post and Times Herald (1954-1959); Apr 5, 1954; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The Washington Post
pg. 5

Israel Blamed For Foray in Egypt; 2 Dead

TEL AVIV, Israel, April 4 (AP). The Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission today denounced Israel for a foray across the border into Egypt Friday when two Egyptian soldiers were killed.

The Israeli invasion of Egyptian territory was a "flagrant violation" of the shaky armistice in the Holy Land, the commission ruled.

The United States chairman, Col. Robert Hommel, cast the deciding vote. As usual in such commission hearings, the two Israeli and two Arab members were opposed in fixing the blame.

Second Action in Week

It was the second denunciation within a week of an Israeli incursion into Arab territory. Last Tuesday the Israeli-Jordanian Mixed Armistice Commission blamed Israel for an armed attack on the Jordanian village of Nahalin, in which nine Arabs were reported killed.

Today's decision blamed the shooting of an Egyptian first lieutenant and enlisted man near the Gaza airport on a "military or para-military" force of armed Israelis.

The commission called on its two Israeli members to ask their government to do its utmost to prevent such incidents.

Arab radios and officials charged Israel with a number of incidents late last week, including the Friday invasion of Egyptian territory.

Israelis Charge Attacks

At the same time, Israeli police in Jerusalem charged that a marauding group presumed to be from Jordan was beaten back for the second straight night by Israeli guards when it tried to enter the village of Moshav Azaria.

Other Israeli sources in Jerusalem reported that the Arab Legion troops massed at the border winding through the ancient city last week had thrown stones at Israelis.

(Egyptian officials reported that in another incident, Israeli forces killed an Arab border guard and wounded another near Rafah. A third guard was reported missing.

(The Jordanian radio said a Jewish patrol yesterday fired on a shepherd at Al Midia near Ramallah, wounding him and killing 45 sheep. It also said an Israeli force of 20 to 30 men crossed the frontier in the Hebron area yesterday and opened fire. National guardsmen fought them off without casualties, it added.

(The Arab League Political Committee meeting in Cairo voted for "decisive military measures" to end the border trouble, but did not specify what they were.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.