Worst Blows Egypt Says
Special to The New York Times.
New York Times (1857-Current file); Jul 12, 1954; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The New York Times (1851 - 2002) pg. 5

Worst Blows Egypt Says

Special to The New York Times.

CAIRO, July 11 — Egyptian military forces charged today that Israeli forces pounded an Egyptian military position with mortar fire and overrun it last night in a bayonet charge, killing six troops and wounding two.

According to the Egyptian version, the fight pitted 100 Israelis against a third as many Palestinian frontier guards. It raged for an hour and a half near Deir el Balah in the Egyptian-administered Gaza strip.

"It was the most serious and warlike incident in the Egyptian sector since the signing of the armistice agreement in February, 1949," declared Col. Salah Gohar, chief of the army's Palestine section.

He said an urgent complaint and a demand for an emergency meeting of the mixed armistice commission to consider the incident had been made.

"There was no provocation for this brutal attack," he said. "Even supposing that an Israeli patrol was fired on from across the demarcation line, that could not possibly justify an invasion and the launching of a full-scale military attack."

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.