NASSER CENSURES MOSLEM FANATICS
By KENNETT LOVESpecial to The New York Times.
New York Times (1857-Current file); Aug 22, 1954; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The New York Times (1851 - 20
pg. 30

NASSER CENSURES MOSLEM FANATICS

Brotherhood and the Reds Are Lumped by Egypt's Premier as a 'Corrupting Force'

By KENNETT LOVE
Special to The New York Times.

CAIRO, Aug. 21—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser astonished Egypt tonight by lumping together the Moslem Brotherhood and the Communists as a "corrupting force."

In his first public address since the conclusion of the outline agreement July 27 providing for British evacuation of the Suez Canal base, Colonel Nasser did the unusual in Egyptian political history by pouring such open contempt on the fanatical and once-powerful Moslem Brotherhood.

The Premier's words were received enthusiastically by 2,000 leaders of chapters of the Liberation Rally, the ruling Army junta's own political organization, which was established nineteen months ago to replace the dissolved political parties.

Wide Publicity Given

Although the Moslem Brothers occasionally cooperate with the Communists, their declared hatred of the latter is one of their main stocks in trade. Colonel Nasser's statement is one of the sharpest insults that could be given to the brotherhood. To insure the greatest publicity, the Government is permitting the Egyptian press to print it in banner headlines tomorrow.

The Premier accused the moribund brotherhood, which only five years ago terrorized the entire country with bombings and assassinations—including two Premiers among its victims—of seeking only to seize power in the name of religion. He said the brotherhood's supreme guide, Hassen el-Hodeiby, had engaged in "negotiations" last spring with Trefor Evans, Oriental secretary of the British Embassy, and had promised him the brotherhood would accept a Suez settlement far less advantageous for Egypt than the one the Government initialed last month.

Terrorism Laid to Israel

Colonel Nasser listed four groups that had opposed the Suez agreement. In addition to the brotherhood and the Communists, he named the Zionists and the former leaders of the political parties, "who are against any achievement by anybody else." He asserted that the great majority of the nation had welcomed the Suez accord.

He said the Zionists were opposed to the agreement because Israel feared a strengthened Egypt. He detailed for the first time for the Egyptian public the alleged activities of a so-called Zionist terrorist organization, which, he said, burned the United States Information Service libraries here and in Alexandria and placed bombs in six American-owned movie theatres. He said the band, many members of which were arrested, acted on radioed orders from Israel to disrupt the Suez negotiations and cause dissension between Egypt and the United States.

Egypt would welcome military and economic aid from the United States and Britain, Colonel Nasser said, provided the aid did not affect Egypt's sovereignty. He said Egypt would not engage in mutual defense pacts with the Western powers.

The 36-year-old soldier-statesman said there were no stipulations in the Suez agreement preventing trade between Egypt and the Soviet orbit. But in sharp contrast to his previous threats of a somewhat hostile neutrality in the East-West conflict, he has made it abundantly clear this week that he regards the Soviet Union and not the West as the potential enemy.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.