Army Officers to Hear Charges Against Moslem Leaders

CAIRO, Nov. 1 (Reuters) — Egypt's ruling military junta announced tonight that a special army officers' tribunal had been formed for the trial of Hassan el-Hodeiby and other members of the Moslem Brotherhood.

Sources close to the Government said Mr. el-Hodeiby would be charged with having ordered an attempt on the life of Egypt's Premier, Lieut. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, last week. The supreme guide, leader of the politico-religious brotherhood sect, was arrested Saturday after a gunman had missed the Premier with a series of close-range shots at an Alexandria rally Tuesday.

President of the tribunal will be Wing Comdr. Gamal Salem, Vice Premier, assisted by Lieut. Col. Hussein el-Shaffei, Minister of Social Affairs, and Lieut. Col. Awar el-Sadat, Minister of State and Secretary General of the Islamic Congress.
