Syrian Mixed Armistice Commission to investigate the incident, which he denounced as an "overt act of aggression by Israel." He declared also that Syria was ready to take "all measures" to get the release of the plane and its crew and passengers.

The Syrian delegate charged at a press conference here that Israel was guilty of "piracy of the air." He said also that it was a "perjury" to contend, as Israel had, that the aircraft was flying over a coastal strip in violation of Israel's sovereignty. The customary flight course is over Lebanese territory, the high seas or Egypt, he added.

Syria May Ask U. N. Action

Special to The New York Times.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 13—Syria contemplates asking the Security Council to take up the airliner case, Ahmed Shukairi, vice chairman of Syria's delegation to the United Nations, announced today.

As a first step, he said, his Government has asked the Israeli-

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.