Resolution Draws Attention to Gaza Strip Infiltration

Special to The New York Times.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 27—The Egyptian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission directed Egypt's attention today to the "serious situation prevailing along the Gaza Strip from repeated attacks" on Israeli settlers.

The statement was part of an Israeli resolution finding that infiltrators from Egyptian-held territory had killed one Israeli and wounded another Monday night.

The resolution stated that the commission noted "with extremely grave concern that despite the obligation imposed on Egypt by the general armistice agreement and a number of Mixed Armistice Commission resolutions these penetrations and killings of Israeli citizens have not been terminated."
