INDIA'S COMMENT

In New Delhi yesterday the Indian Government announced that it considered the Israeli invasion of Egypt and the British-French ultimatum a flagrant violation of the United Nations Charter. In a formal statement the Indian Government said: "This aggression is bound to have far-reaching consequences in Asia and Africa."

And what, for the record, was the Indian Government saying a few days ago about "aggression" when Soviet troops were killing Hungarian patriots in cold blood? We quote from the broadcast of the Indian Home Service on Oct. 28: "Prime Minister Nehru addressed the thirty-seventh Uttar Pradesh political conference held in Jaunpur today. In a brief reference to the international situation he said that nationalism is raising its head in Hungary and Poland. A kind of civil war is raging. Nehru said he did not wish to express his opinion, but the events indicated that even something strongly entrenched could be uprooted."

We wish that some of the indig-
