Nasser's Defiant Words Hark Back to Churchill's

The phraseology used yesterday by Egypt's President Gamal Abdul Nasser in vowing defense of his country was reminiscent of the words of defiance spoken by Winston Churchill in World War II.

President Nasser, in his broadcast, said: "We shall fight from village to village, from house to house * * * we shall not surrender."

In June, 1940, with the German troops threatening the British Isles, Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons:

"We shall defend our island, we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender."
