END TO U.S. AID SEEN
New York Times (1857-Current file); Nov 3, 1956; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The New York Times (1851 - 2002)
pg. 6

END TO U. S. AID SEEN

Van Fleet Assails Allies for 'Meanest' Action in Egypt

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 2 (UP)—Gen. James Van Fleet, former United Nations Commander in Korea, said tonight that the Middle Eastern crisis might bring an end to "our generous giving."

General Van Fleet charged that the action of Britain, France and Israel was "the meanest thing any ally who has received our money could possibly do to Uncle Sam."

The general was guest speaker at the University of Florida's homecoming festivities. He said he believed that the solution to the Egyptian conflict would have to come through the United Nations. "I hope our nation can make it clear to England, France, Israel and Egypt that they must not bring on this kind of shooting war."

He said the probable result would mean that "the time of our generous giving to those people has come to an end."

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.